

STUDY OF THE BIOCHEMICAL POTENTIAL OF WILD FRUIT OF THE CAUCASUS
MEDAR (Mespilus caucasicus L.) IN THE POST-HARVEST PERIOD

FARZALIEV E. B.

References:

1. Farzaliev E.B., Wild-growing vegetable raw materials as a source of functional food ingredients. Proceedings NAA, series "Natural and technical science", 2021, n. 4(83), p.18-23.
2. Ovcharenko A.S., Rasulova U.A., Kondakova O.E. Functional ingredients of fruits of wild plants. Food industry, 2017, №12, c.53-57.
3. Nemenushchaya L.A., Stepanishcheva N.M., Solomatin D.M. Modern technologies of storage and processing of fruits and vegetables. M., FSBSI Rosinformagrotech, 2009, 172 c.
4. Ovodov Yu.S. Modern ideas about pectin substances. Bioorganic chemistry, 2009, т.35, №3, c.293-310.
5. Gogolashvili L.A. Japanese loquat and its best varieties. Subtropical cultures, 1976. № 3-4, c.108-118.
6. Larina T.V. Tropical and subtropical fruits. Directory. M., DeLi print, 2002, 254 c.
7. Sun X-H, Hiong J-J, Zhy A-D, Zvang L. Sugar and organic acid changes in pericarp and endocarp tissues of pomelo fruit during postharvest. Scientia Horticulturae, 2012, v.114, p.112-117.
8. Golubev V.N. Acoustic cavitation in food engineering. Proc. 7th Int. Conf. on Ultrasound, 1996, p.174-180.
9. AOAC International Official methods of analysis, 16th ed. Helrich K. Arlington, Virginia, USA, 1995.
10. Baytop T. In: Curing with plants in Turkey, in the past and today, Nobel Medical Books, Capa, Istanbul, 1999, p.299-310.
11. Pietta P.G. Ascorbic acid as antioxidants. J. Nat. Prod., 2000, v.63, n7, p.1035-1042.
12. Chen F.X., Lui X.H., Chen L.S. Developmental changes in pulp organic acid concentration and activities of acid-metabolizing enzymes during the fruit development. Food Chemistry, 2009, v.114, p.657-664.
13. Garcia-Martinez I., Martinez-Navarette C., Effect of thermal treatment and storage on the stability of organic acids and the functional value of grapefruit. Food Chemistry, 2010, v.118, p.558-561.
14. Kolodyaznaya V.S., Bulkran M.S. Kinetics of reactions of transformation of organic acids during refrigeration storage of citrus fruits. Vestnik MAX, 2014. № 4, c. 22-25.
15. Galliard T. In: Recent advances in the chemistry and biochemistry of plant lipids. Academic Press, N.Y., 1975, p.319-329.